CLUBBER CHARGED WITH MURDER IN COURT, TUESDAY

Three Men, and Woman
Arraigned on Charge
Of Extortion

Rafael Agulla was arraigned on a charge of murder before Judge Silva Tuesday afternoon. Agulla, who killed two men last month, one in Stockton and one in Niles, is being prosecuted in Alameda county, because his confession to both crimes was signed in Alameda county. This in addition to a mass of circumstantial evidence, was believed to outweigh the chances for conviction in San Joaquin county, where he could be tried on only one case, the Stockton stabbing, on the evidence of one witness. Agulla clubbed and fatally injured a hobo in the Niles railroad yards. He believed the hobo to be a detective trailing him because of the Stockton affair.

Harry Ferrari, Donald E. Hayes, Manuel Moya, and Mary Carlton were arraigned on a charge of extortion at the same court. Ferrari and Hayes, arrested over a week ago, had protested their innocence but broke down after the arrest and confession last Thursday of the other two. The four are alleged to have been extorting money from Mrs. Annie Ramos, of Warm Springs, by threatening to report her for bootlegging activities. They were arrested by Deputy Sheriffs L. E. Van Patten and Hugo Radbruck.

Joseph V. Serpa was to have been arraigned but his case was continued for a week due to the illness of one of the witnesses.

COUNTRY CLUB PLAY DEPICTS ENGLISH LIFE OF LONG AGO

"Ashes of Rose" a costume play of English life in the eighteenth century was given Tuesday afternoon at a regular meeting of the country club in Centerville. The play, directed by Mrs. Barton Webb, was one of the most difficult and spectacular ever presented by the Dramatic Section of the club. It was thoroughly enjoyed by all those present because of its excellent staging and the skillful performances of the players.

Mrs. Howard Chadbourne played the part of Kitty Clive, a beautiful actress with a lovely character and charming wit. Her devoted admirer, Horace Walpole, one of a group of suitors constantly surrounding the lovely Kitty, was enacted by Mrs. Walter Robie.

A contrast to the part of Kitty is the character of Phyllis, a shy country maid, and was taken by Mrs. Earl Townsend.

These were the outstanding characters in the play. Appropriate music during the intermissions was furnished by the music committee.

TWO WESTERN PACIFIC FREIGHTS CRASH NEAR SUNOL; FOUR KILLED

Niles Man Attempts To Rescue Train Crew
Trapped In Wreck

Four men are dead as the result of a crash between two Western Pacific freight trains near Sunol last Friday night.

A Sacramento freight, No. 37, hit the rear end of a transcontinental extra freight, No. 61, which was just pulling into the siding. Both trains were bound for Oakland.

The engine of the one train plowed through the caboose of the other freight, plunged over a thirty foot embankment, and turned over on its side, carrying its own crew of three and one man from the caboose to their death. All four men were trapped in the wreckage and any chance they may have had of being extricated was blasted by the escaping steam which roasted them and prevented rescuers from reaching them.

The dead men are R. M. Middleton, engineer, of Oakland; W. W. Reichenbach, 23, fireman, of Oakland; L. H. Gostlin, 43, brakeman, of Oakland; and R. C. Jones, brakeman, of Stockton. Middleton, Reichenbach, and Gostlin were riding the engine of No. 37, and Jones was in the caboose of the other train. According to Walter McCullough, conductor of the Sacramento freight, his engine crew had time to jump, but stuck to their posts in an effort to save the train. Jones attempted to escape by jumping from the caboose, but he chose the wrong side of the train and the engine crushed him to the ground as it turned on its side.

Immediately following the wreck separate investigations of the cause were started by the interstate commerce commission, the state industrial accident commission, and the Western Pacific railroad. T. E. Coyle, division superintendent at Sacramento, is at the scene directing the investigation for the railroad.

Conductor Curtis Risk, in charge of freight No. 61, was on the ground trying to flag the oncoming train when the crash occurred. He could hear it approaching before it rounded the curve and came in sight. When he saw he could not prevent a collision he jumped clear of the track.

McCullough was riding in the cupola of the caboose as his train rounded the curve, and he saw the train in the track ahead. It was from this point that he noted his engine crew did not jump, although they had ample opportunity. On the engine were the engineer, fireman, and "front flagman."

"Hobos," riding on the Sacramento freight, were the first to attempt the rescue of the trapped engine crew. Francis O. Groshong, a new employee of a Niles restaurant, was asleep in a box car of the speeding train when the crash occurred. He and several companions were thrown half the length of the car by the impact.

FIRE DEPARTMENT PRACTICES WITH NEW FIRE TRUCK

New Truck Carries 200
Gallons Water and 100 of Chemicals

The new truck of the Niles Fire department is being broken in at the weekly drills. The new equipment makes the department one of the best equipped fire fighting organizations to be found in any rural section of the state.

The new truck is a combination pump and chemical engine of the newest design. It carries two hundred gallons of water and one hundred gallons of chemicals which may be pumped through a small hose at high pressure. For more serious blazes the truck is equipped with a power pump and suction hose which enable it to pump water from wells or streams under a pressure of two hundred pounds per square inch, according to H. B. Rathbun, the chief.

In addition to the new equipment, the department has another truck, which carries one hundred and fifty gallons of water, fifty gallons of chemicals, a power pump and sixteen feet of suction hose. Also, there is a ladder and hose truck belonging to the department. The Rose garage maintains a fast and efficient chemical engine and this private equipment is at the disposal of the department at all times.

MRS. DINNOCENZO INJURES LEG IN FALL FROM CHAIR

Grau showed no fracture of the bone, her only injury being a severe contusion.

CHRISTMAS TREE PLANS STARTED BY CHAMBER

F. V. Jones, vice president of the Chamber of Commerce, presided over the chamber's regular luncheon meeting Tuesday in the unavoidable absence of President Louis Smith. Many items were brought before the members in the twenty-five minutes of discussion which took place after the lunch.

Immediately after the reading of the minutes a bill for six dollars to C. E. Davis, who cultivated the trees on Main street, was presented before the chamber and voted paid by the members.

Two committees working on raising the boy scout quota reported progress, the work being nearly completed.

It was brought to the attention of the chamber that no work has as yet been done on the bandstand. R. A. Blacow treasurer, on being questioned, said that no money has been paid in accord-

ALUMNI WALLOPS HI SCHOOL TEAM WITH SCORE 12-0

Muddy Field Responsible
For Several Freaks
Of Football

The alumni football team defeated the high school varsity on Thanksgiving morning by a score of 12-0. The game was played on a slippery, muddy field, and praise is due both teams for the good, steady football displayed.

Both alumni touchdowns were made on power plays. Neither team made any headway with any other type of play because of the mud.

The high school varsity made only seven yards in the whole game, failing to chalk up even one first down against the alumni. They made three yards from scrimmage and four yards on one completed pass. Their excellent defensive work and the marvelous kicking of Sam Kerns were the two factors responsible for keeping the score down.

An unique feature of the game was the fact that not once did an alumni back make a tackle. During the entire game play was in varsity territory, and any threats the varsity showed were smothered by the alumni line, which averaged close to one hundred and ninety pounds.

In the opinion of Joe Blacow, alumni coach, the high school varsity earned praise for playing their best game of the year.

Every member of the alumni squad entered the play at one time or another during the game. This year's team was the best alumni team ever turned out. With a season's constant practice, Blacow thinks they would be the equal of any high school varsity in the state.

Assistant Coach Luchio Campus is figuratively licking his chops in anticipation of the kill to be made by next year's alumni team, which in his opinion will surpass the present one, according to the bright prospects.

MACMARR STORE HAS THIEF SCARE MONDAY MORNING

EDITORIAL COMMENT

By NORMAN H. PARKS, Publisher Register

OLD JULIUS' GLORY FADES!

IT HAS BEEN a long, long time since Julius Caesar refused the crown. Through all these centuries his name has stood out in bold relief as the one man big enough to refuse such an honor. This Roman, soldier and statesman, was wise enough to understand that flattery of friends was not the true estimate of the masses in his far-flung empire, so not once but twice refused to accept the coveted prize held out to him by Mark Anthony, his friend in the Roman tribunal. But that unusual action pales in the light of recent events—

William Randolph Hearst has refused the presidency!

F. S. Champion, Jr., private citizen of Los Angeles and America, is the modern Mark Anthony. A little while ago Hearst arrived in Champion's town on his specially appointed admiration tour of the country, following his expulsion from "Gay Paree." At the banquet given "the greatest living American," Anthony brought down to date, distributed campaign buttons with the inscription, "Hearst for President in 1932." It was a gesture similar to that of Anthony, who, skipping about in happy abandon before his caesar, offered the crown to Julius in a burst of adulation. Champion, on the other hand, offered the presidency of the greatest nation the world has ever known to Hearst, on a campaign button!

Like Julius Caesar, Hearst waited a little while to see the reaction of the proletariat. The enthusiasm was far from spontaneous. The Roman, with a grandiloquent wave of his hand, pushed the proffered crown aside; Hearst, through his string of newspapers tells the waiting millions that he can not be their president. He humbly assures his admirers that he can serve best in the ranks. He would be a common soldier, and share their common woes. His attitude—indeed his conduct—would become an example for young men—the men who in the future will set the political and moral standards of this nation. In self abnegation he confesses that his past political record is not brilliant, but modestly has no word about his private one.

But that is another story. Enough! For will not Hearst's name live through the aeon of time as the man who took the wind completely out of the sails of Julius Caesar, who, until the Twentieth century, was the only man who ever refused a crown.

CITY GOVERNMENT AT LOW EBE

Organized hoodlumdom, drawing the fire of the chief executive of this country, casts a dark cloud over municipal authorities of the great cities of America. The executive wrath is well received everywhere that law and order is revered; in the dens of vice there should be a little apprehension, though we doubt that the habitues, long immune to official interference, are uneasy.

Back of the whole rotten mess is graft. Corruption of the police departments, the courts and the press of Chicago appall one who is even slightly concerned over the success of local government. The city editor of one of Chicago's great newspapers, admitted, under fire from one of the other papers of that city, that he had been entertained lavishly at the home of Capone in Miami, Florida—that he had flown in that vice baron's plane to Havana where the criminal had feted him sumptuously. In the face of this, the owner of that paper retained the editor. The thing is sickening. It shows to what depths of infamy has fallen the standard of the metropolitan press. What might one, then, expect of precinct police officials, who, generally speaking, are lower morally and mentally than the scum that they are supposed to gather up and dump in penitentiaries.

Instead of making new laws to catch the hoodlum, let us put some teeth into the laws we have to jail bribe-taking, booze-drinking, law-breaking men who wear an officer's badge, and a uniform of authority prostituted in the mire of corruption.

"As Ye Would That Others Should Do Unto You, Do Ye Even So Unto Them"

Nineteen-thirty is the eighth anniversary of the Golden Rule Foundation which began in 1923 as "Golden Rule Sunday" for the benefit of children in Bible lands. It has since grown to "Golden Rule Week," and as such, helps the under-privileged children of the whole world with the co-operation of public schools, service clubs, women's organizations, local newspapers and other secular agencies, many of which are as much interested in the principle of the "Golden Rule" as are the churches and Sunday schools.

William Gibb McAdoo represents the California committee of the Foundation.

"Golden Rule Week" this year is to be the week of December 7 to 14 inclusive. Newspapers, magazines, radio stations, and advertising agencies are donating their services in advertising this week. Churches are observing a "Golden Rule Sunday."

Individuals are urged to eat a "Golden Rule Dinner," make a "Golden Rule" contribution and assist in the organization and observance of "Golden Rule Week" in their homes and local communities.

ADDITIONAL MEMBERS ARE SOUGHT FOR SEWING CLASS AT AMADOR NIGHT SCHOOL

Christmas Presents Are Now Being Made by Women

With only three more weeks until Christmas, Mrs. Anita Smith, director, and members of the night school sewing classes at the Amador Valley High School, Pleasanton, are urging other women of the community to take advantage of the opportunities offered by this course in making Christmas presents.

The sewing classes meet each Monday and Thursday evenings. Material for a wide range of suitable gifts for both men and women, are furnished at cost, and the instructions are given gratis. Already a moderate number of women have taken advantage of the classes, but considering the high type of instruction there should be a larger number. R. O. Moyer, principal of the school, declared.

There are remaining three more weeks before Christmas. In that time it will be possible for a large number of useful presents to be made, Mrs. Smith stated.

It is the hope of the school that the classes will continue after the first of the year, but unless there is a sufficient number to warrant, only one class a week will be held instead of the two as at present, Mrs. Smith stated.

"The 'Art-Point' Studios submit to you their complete assortment, all that is newest and smartest for 1930. You have the privilege of making your selections from a line that has not been picked over."—N27dh

THE NEW CHEVROLET SIX

Strikingly beautiful, fleet and smart
—a masterpiece of Fisher styling

Never has the superiority of Body by Fisher been more strikingly exemplified than in the Bigger and Better Chevrolet Six! With the added advantage of a lengthened wheelbase, Fisher designers have achieved in the new Chevrolet an impressive degree of smartness, comfort and luxury.

Inside and out, scores of refinements stamp this car as a masterpiece of modern coachwork. Radiator, headlamps and tie-bar form an unusually attractive and distinctive ensemble. Mouldings sweep back in an unbroken line to blend with the smart new body contours. And new color combinations lend a new individuality. Interiors, too, are exceptional. The new mohair and broadcloth upholstery is smartly tailored. Seats are wider and more luxuriously cushioned. A deeper windshield and wider windows give better vision. And beautiful new modern fittings lend a final note of charm.

Many mechanical improvements are also evident in this Bigger and Better Six. Among these are a stronger frame; easier steering; a more durable clutch; a quieter, smoother transmission; and important engine refinements.

The Bigger and Better Chevrolet Six is now on display. See it today—drive it! It is the Great American Value!

LEGION WILL GIVE DANCE TO HELP BOY SCOUTS

A dance to aid the Boy Scouts of Washington Township in raising their quotas for the coming year will be given on December 13, by the American Legion in the Memorial Hall, Niles.

R. Peterson, of Niles, is chairman of the committee in charge of the dance and reports that two hundred and fifty tickets have already been distributed among the scouts of Niles, Decoto, and Centerville. The actual selling of the tickets is in the hands of the scouts. Frank Ferry, veteran scout, of Niles, is in charge of the sales force in his city.

The Fleur De Lis Orchestra, from Oakland, has been engaged by Peterson to play for the dance. Some form of a short, snappy entertainment is also being planned by the scouts.

The scout committees of the Legion will divide the proceeds of the dance among the troops in Niles, Decoto, Newark, Centerville and Irvington according to their memberships and their financial needs for the coming year.

POST OFFICE IS PREPARING FOR HOLIDAY RUSH

Post office authorities have issued a number of cautions to prevent valuable presents being lost in the Christmas rush. Probably the most important is the caution to wrap parcels securely. Another thing necessary is to address the parcels plainly, including street and number. Don't take a chance on the parcel reaching its destination when the address is incomplete. A third precaution to take in preventing mail from becoming lost is to put a return address on all packages and letters. Mail without a return address goes to the dead letter office in case it is not delivered.

One request made by the post office, one that will help immeasurably in the safe and sure handling of Christmas mail, and one that will be most widely ignored, is to mail holiday packages early. All postal employees will get Christmas day off, so the package that would just make it by Christmas day if the mailmen worked that day, will be late this year.

NILES DRY GOODS STORE OFFERING CHRISTMAS SALES

Mike Hadad has announced a change of policy in his department store in Niles. Instead of the infrequent sales with a large variety of merchandise offered at special low prices, he is inaugurating a program offering a few specials only at much more frequent intervals.

Mr. Hadad, in speaking of his plan, said, "From now on I will offer every three days for the benefit of Washington township people, three items at an attractively low price. My specials from now until Christmas will, I hope, make the buying of Christmas gifts easy for everyone."

Mr. Hadad's advertisement, elsewhere in this paper, gives his special bargains for this week-end.

OSKOS DANCE IS PLANNED DEC. 6 AT NILES GARDEN

A. A. Brady will present Rendon's Musical Entertainers in a new novelty dance at the Garden of Allah, Niles, this Saturday, December 6. The party has been named the Askos Dance, and everyone is assured of just that kind of a time.

Last week at the Garden the dancers had an opportunity to hear the radio which Brady will present free of charge to some person at his dance to be given in the Garden on Saturday, December 6. Much favorable comment was expressed over the beautiful radio.

Rendon and his gang of jazz makers have arranged a special program for Saturday night, and when his group prepare something new, it is new.

Be a model to other business men: ADVERTISE.

LESLIE SALTS ARE BEATEN, SUNDAY, EIGHT TO THREE

The Leslie Salts were defeated by the Western Paper Box, Sunday with a score of 3 to 8.

The Leslies scored no runs until the sixth inning when Dondero crossed home plate on Soito's sacrifice fly. Muller hit a home run in the seventh inning but the bags were empty.

Dutra replaced Muller in the eighth inning and hit a two bagger, getting one hit for one time at bat, in other words, batting a thousand. Roderick replaced Degermark in the eighth inning. Roderick is recuperating from an injured arm and shows signs of playing mighty fine ball this next half.

Poles down -
- lines out -
But the calls still went through

A SUDDEN FLOOD carried out the telephone lines between two western cities. It would be hours before the poles could be reset. But the repair crews were equal to the crisis.

While construction went ahead at top speed, a squad of telephone men stood waist-deep in the surging streambed, holding a temporary line on their shoulders. Countless messages of reassurance and safety passed over the temporary line.

All in the day's work . . . the message must go through.

SUNOL

-- DEPARTMENT --

Mrs. F. A. Johnson has returned to Los Angeles after spending the past month at the home of her son, H. A. Johnson and family.

At the meeting of the Sunol Girl Scouts Thursday, November 20, patrol leaders were elected. There are about twelve girls who have joined and all are enthusiastic scouts.

Several of the Sunol ladies were in attendance at the card party held in Mission San Jose by the Parent-Teachers Friday evening, November 21.

Mr. Kelly is having electricity installed in his cabin on the Hill Road.

Mrs. F. Crespi left November 21 for San Francisco where she spent the week-end with her daughter, Miss Edith.

The repair crew of the Western Pacific are busy at work repairing the roof of the depot which caught fire a week ago. The fire departments of Niles and Pleasanton were called and responded in short order but the local boys had the fire pretty well controlled on their arrival. The residents of Sunol are truly thankful for the help of the departments and their promptness in responding to the call for help.

A dozen little girls, all playmates of little Miss Nellie Archer, were gathered at her home to help her celebrate her sixth birthday, on Saturday afternoon, November 22. The afternoon was spent in playing games dear to the heart of all little children. About four o'clock Mrs. Archer served the children ice cream and the cake with six candles, after which the little ones returned to their homes. Nellie received many birthday presents from her little friends.

Children's book week was featured at the Sunol Branch Library, November 16 to November 22. Attractive posters, pamphlets and a collection of interesting books for children were on display Friday morning, Miss Mary Barmby, County Librarian, and Mrs. Mitchell, of the children's story hour, gave a talk on children's books followed by a story telling to the children from the second to the fifth grades of the Sunol Glen school. The children were arranged on the porch of the library. The little tots enjoyed a real treat of sunshine story telling.

The Sunol branch of the county library received a map of Great Britain and twenty books for young people and adults illustrative of the map. This set is similar to the "reading with a purpose" set. These books will be in the library two months and then they will be forwarded to another branch.

The "bird coloring contest" in the "Aunt Elsie section" of the Oakland Tribune each week is open to all children from six to twelve years of age. The first of each week the colored bird picture will be on the bulletin board at the library for the children to copy. This should appeal to the children as it is a very interesting study.

The children of the Sunol school are working hard at the operetta to be given by them on December 12. It will be a Christmas play and that fact will make it more interesting for the younger ones.

Mrs. G. G. Bayley spent Thanksgiving with her daughters in Berkeley.

Henry Koopman and several friends from Dublin attended the horseracing at Tanforan Thanksgiving Day.

The Sunol Parent-Teachers entertained after their business meeting Tuesday, November 25, by Mrs. R. O. Moyer, of Pleasanton, who sang several songs. Among which were the songs "Sylvia" and "The Cuckoo." After the singing lunch was served by Mrs. A. Silver and Mrs. F. Archer. meeting Tuesday, November 25.

Don't forget the masquerade dance to be held in the Sunol grammar school on December 13. This is another Chamber of Commerce affair.

Two persons enter into a conspiracy against a third one. One of the conspirators is not true to the compact. Secretly he informs the third party of the conspiracy and throws the burden on his trusting partner. Such is the origin of the term, double cross. It has had various modifications and applications until it has come to mean almost any underhanded gaining of confidence and subsequent betrayal. Beginning as a slang term, it was too expressive to remain so, and is now a recognized figure of speech. A singularly wicked form of the double cross is the basis for this story. A man proves recreant to the most sincere form of friendship, recreant to the partner who held him in the closest regard. He betrays the trust placed in him, and the woman he loved.

Written by a successful playwright, the story is essentially dramatic, crisp in dialogue and realistic in action. The metropolitan setting is used with fine effect to produce atmosphere and characterization. The absorbing elements of the plot are rendered more fascinating by a vein of subtlety and mystery leading to an unexpected climax near the end. The story might appropriately be termed the triple cross, for the double crosser himself becomes the victim of one whom he trustingly took into his enterprise.

CHAPTER I.—Jim Stanley, wealthy young New York business man, unable to concentrate in his dictation to his desk telephone, has the machine taken to his home, and is unable to finish his work there. Rollin Waterman, his business partner and close friend, comes in and they are avowedly in love with Doris Colby. Stanley proposes they toss a coin to determine which of them shall, that evening, first ask her to marry him. Waterman wins.

CHAPTER II.—Nina Morgan, Waterman's secretary, also his mistress, has overheard his conversation with Stanley and is resentful of Waterman's plans to desert her. Waterman tells her he is practically penniless and must make a risk. He tells her she (Nina) has been wronged—but by Stanley. The girl consents, on Waterman's promise to take care of her.

CHAPTER III.—Doris admits to her father her interest in both Stanley and Waterman, and is sure they are both in love with her, but she is unable to make up her mind which to marry.

CHAPTER IV.—Nina goes to Doris with her story, securing a promise that Doris will not reveal the source of her information. She convinces Doris of Stanley's duplicity, and realizes that it is Stanley she really has loved.

CHAPTER V.—Waterman that evening asks Doris to marry him, and she, believing Stanley unworthy, accepts him. According to the arrangement, Stanley is to learn his rival has won. He accepts the situation and as a wedding present gives his share of the business to Waterman. Next day he arranges with his secretary, Frank Wilson, to take charge of his other business interests. He is going to India.

CHAPTER VI.—Doris, unable to put Stanley completely out of her mind, tells Waterman part of Nina's story. He promises to tell the girl, so that full corroboration can be made. Waterman is deeply in debt to a gambler, Bromfield, and is desperate for money. Stanley, who has long been aware of Waterman's crooked business methods and his debts, sees Nina and is determined to help her. He begins to importune Doris for money, ostensibly for the "business" but actually for gambling purposes.

CHAPTER VII.—At Waterman's urging Doris wears her magnificent diamond necklace, which had been her dead mother's, to the opera. That night she disappears. Doris, fearing Bromfield's aid in tracing the stones (the gambler's wife making a likely party to get information about the gems), and is apparently satisfied with the results of Bromfield's efforts.

CHAPTER VIII.—Stanley returns to New York with an East Indian friend, Swami Ramanara. Doris realizes now that she loves him, and always has. Made desperate by Waterman's conduct she suggests separation or divorce. Waterman refuses to consider either. Stanley, on Doris' feet all his old love for the girl awakened. He invites her and Waterman to his country home for the following Saturday. Tossing with the audiphone which had been in use in Stanley's old office, the machine reproduces the conversation Waterman had with Nina Morgan when the conspiracy was arranged, and Stanley's eyes are opened.

Stanley, already dressed, was sitting at the big desk. Wilson stood beside him, anxious as he never had been before in all his life. For the first time in his life, also, he found himself in opposition to Jim Stanley. He found himself upon the verge of a terrible adventure. He was about to be plunged into it, head first, and the water was too deep and too cold for the little man. However, there was no budging Stanley. He was committed to it, and therefore Wilson, though terrified at the prospect, regarded himself as committed also.

you are certain you understand? "Yes," replied the secretary, "in so far as that goes. But I beg you to reconsider before it's too late." "Reconsider what? Can anything alter the facts? No, no, my friend, retribution shall fall on this man's head before the rise of another sun."

"Oh, sir, I'm afraid."

"Of what?"

"For you, sir. He's strong—his temper is violent. If you goad him to desperation—"

"That's it—that's it!" cried Stanley. "That's what I'm going to do!"

"He may kill you."

"I'll take the chance."

"I'm afraid—I'm afraid!" repeated Wilson, in a shaking voice.

Stanley glanced once at the door and then he said: "Listen, Frank. Once in the life of every man there comes a time when he stands at the crossroads. I stand there to-night. Once the choice is made there can be no turning back. I have made my choice—and now—forward march! But I'm afraid I've been selfish in this thing. I haven't thought of you at all. Yes, yes—there's danger in this for you, too. More than a little danger. Perhaps I have no right to expose you to it."

"No, no. It isn't that," protested Wilson.

"It's not too late—you had better leave this house now—at once. Then whatever happens under this roof tonight, your skirts will be clear."

"No, sir," said Wilson firmly, "if you're set on going on with this, I'll stand by. All the same sir—"

A gentle swish of silk—both men turned. Doris stood in the doorway. Wilson effaced himself through the door that led to his tiny office, ad joining the library. His heart beat wildly. He was in for it now!

"Ah, my dear Doris," cried Stanley, beaming upon her, "how charming you look!"

She spoke with nervous haste.

"I've got to talk with you. This is my only chance. I've been trying to do it all day but you wouldn't let me. And Rollin hasn't let me out of his sight since we came. It almost seemed as if he were afraid of me."

"Surely—surely he's not jealous of me?"

"Perhaps," said Doris, with a sigh.

"Jealous of me?" Jim cried. "His best friend? Incredible!"

If she suspected irony she gave no sign—she was too intent on her own immediate purpose.

"Come closer, please," she murmured. Jim hesitated briefly—then he crossed the room and sat down beside her.

"You saw—the other day—of course," she began. "I told you I was happy, but of course you know better. I'm miserable!"

"My dear Doris—"

"Oh, I don't mean that it's all Rollin's fault. I don't wish to blame him for everything. Maybe I've failed him. I don't know how I've done my best. But anyhow it's all no use. Hadn't you guessed it?"

"Well, I wondered," he admitted. He was uncomfortable. An exchange of confidences had been no part of his plan.

"You saw that he was drunk," she hurried on. "Well, he often is. And I can't believe him any more. Then about money—I don't begrudge it to him—but he spends large sums in no time at all—in the market, he says. But there are ways of finding out. I don't spy on him but—things come to me that I can't doubt. And he no longer makes any pretense of being in love with me."

"Doris, this is tragic!"

"Yes, but that isn't all I've got to say. I must hurry, too—he'll come down at any moment. So don't interrupt, Jim—" She paused briefly as if reconsidering, but then went on. "I feel that I must ask your forgiveness."

"What for?" he asked in genuine surprise.

"Just before you went to India," she continued. "A certain person came to see me and made an accusation against you—a shocking accusation."

representative of the company has always attended to this matter. Last year's lights are available and will be used again.

Vice-President Jones reported that plans are under way to secure a speaker for the next meeting of the chamber and one for the meeting of December 16, also.

The December 16 luncheon being the one to be furnished by the Parent-Teachers Association, the suggestion was made and is to be acted on at the next meeting, that the chamber let the ladies know in advance the number of members who will be present. J. E. Townsend reported that the ladies are hoping to serve fifty plates.

Harvey Braun told a little of his work with the Alameda County Development Commission in planning for the booth for next year's fair. He says that an agricultural and horticultural display is being planned and that more space is sought for the display. A meeting shortly after the holidays is being planned, but before that time it will be necessary to contact growers, farm advisers, and all people who can help in making the Alameda county exhibit a success.

E. F. Glassbrook was appointed to notify members of next week's meeting and the chamber adjourned.

CHRISTMAS SEALS REACHED NILES HOMES ON THANKSGIVING DAY

Christmas Seals mailed out last Tuesday by the local committees of the Alameda County Tuberculosis Association were in the hands of residents of Washington Township on Thanksgiving Day according to Mrs. J. E. Thane, Chairman of the Township Seal Sale Committee. In speaking of the Seal Sale Mrs. Thane said: "In Alameda County the revenue derived from the sale of penny Christmas Seals is put to use assisting our tuberculosis clinics in treating those who need their services, establishing health adjustment classes in public schools, helping to finance the work at Del Valle Farm Preventorium and carrying on various health education activities and projects.

"The work at Del Valle Preventorium should be a source of great satisfaction to all of us. At this institution 875 children threatened with tuberculosis have been cared for and returned to their homes and parents in good health. It is, perhaps, not commonly known that at the present time nearly half of the beds at Del Valle are maintained directly out of money raised by the sale of Christmas Seal Sales while maintenance of the remainder is taken care of by the community sending the child. Our Township has a quota of two beds at Del Valle, one of which is maintained out of Seal Sale funds and the other by funds raised by the local committees under the direction of Mrs. Frank C. Dusterberry, of Centerville. At the present time, however, there are three children from Washington Township at Del Valle, one bed being assigned from another district to accommodate the third child.

The Christmas Seal Sale in Washington Township is under the leadership of Mrs. J. E. Thane and Mrs. J. R. Whipple. The committees of the eight towns in the township work under them. Those committees and their chairmen follow:

Alvarado—Mrs. August May chairman, Miss Mildred Nauert, Mrs. W. S. Robie.

Centerville—Mrs. Howard Chadbourne, chairman, Mrs. Fleda O. Bunting, Mrs. George Colt.

Decoto—Mrs. A. A. Amaral, chairman, Mrs. Hortense Silva.

Irvington—Mrs. C. A. Lutz, chairman, Mrs. A. B. Hirsch, Dr. C. A. Lutz.

Mission San Jose and Warm Springs—Miss Sophy Gallegos, chairman, Miss Anita Gallegos.

Newark—Mrs. Charles Cockefair, chairman, Miss Mary Brown, Mrs. W. D. Patterson.

Niles—Mrs. Rosalie Donovan, chairman, Clement Donovan.

Former Niles Resident Gives Party for Husband

Mrs. Bill Rose, of Newark, gave a party Saturday night in honor of her husband. Over seventy five guests were present and gave the couple many beautiful gifts. The evening was spent playing whist and dancing. The couple are former residents of Niles.

Farmers around Niles who have been busy pruning for the past few weeks are now finishing up. The most of them are ready to spray and irrigate the apricot orchards.

MORE ON Two Western Pacific

They rushed to the front of the train and found the engine on its side in the ditch, with the boiler and the whole front end completely caved in and steam hissing forth from the countless cracks and leaks. One of the men burnt his trousers half off in attempting to get at the doomed engine crew. Nothing could be done till the boiling steam had completely escaped, according to Groshong.

The noise of the crash brought volunteer rescuers from all directions and Mrs. H. A. Johnson, wife of the station agent at Sunol telephoned for Dr. M. E. Eastman, of Pleasanton.

Crude oil was flowing in a pool about the wrecked engine, and the fire departments of both Pleasanton and Niles were called to prevent an outbreak of fire. Volunteers and Pleasanton firemen dragged the bodies from the steam-scalded wreck of the engine cab.

The caboose of the standing train was crushed and a refrigerator car and a gondola in front of it were hurled from the track and wrecked. In leaving the track, the drivers of the wrecked locomotive sheared through the center of the ties. Wreckage was strewn along the right of way for one hundred feet. Wrecking crews took hours to clear the debris after borrowing a crane from the Southern Pacific railroad at Oakland.

While the track was blocked by the wreckage, Western Pacific passenger trains were routed over the Southern Pacific tracks between Niles and Livermore.

Deputy coroner Charles Graham, of Pleasanton, took charge of the bodies.

THE BANK OF AMERICA believes in a square deal for everybody and it endeavors to do business upon this basis in all transactions...large or small. The Bank of America is absolutely impartial in its consideration of the public. The mechanic in overalls is extended the same cordial welcome, the same courtesies, and the same whole-hearted service as the millionaire. The principles laid down for the management of this institution by its founder and his associates, are democratic and constructive in character, and they typify the very spirit of America.
